

Protect your Health from Earth Radiation

What are geopathic and geopathological Disturbance Zones?

Geopathic disturbance zones is a collective term for the influence from the environment of underground water courses, chasms, fault lines, global grid networks and radioactive gases, e.g. radon, also known as earth radiation. Earth radiation is also the collective term for neutrons, ions, radioactive emissions, everything that comes out of the earth is termed ionized radiation, or earth radiation for short.

Geopathological disturbance zones are geopathic disturbance zones which reached a radiation force provoking ailments.

There are a range of measurable indications for the change of physical parameters at these zones. Among others, an increase in air ionization by a factor of 100 has been found, an increase of radioactive emissions and retarded neutrons. These factors are undisputed causes of diseases like for example Cancer, MS, Parkinson and Alzheimer.

Course of a Geopathy

1. The radiation from geopathological disturbance zones reaches every cell in the body:
  - a. Nerve cells
  - b. Mesenchyme cells, connective tissue
  - c. Parenchyma cells, organ cells, liver, kidneys, spleen
  - d. Blood, red and white blood cells
  - e. Lymph, white body fluids, belongs to the immune system
2. Under the influence of radiation or electromagnetic fields, the melatonin production by the pineal gland is disturbed. Melatonin is the most important protective hormone in our bodies. It protects the cells in our bodies from free radicals and prevents them from penetrating the body cells, and thereby their destruction. It ensures that there is a sufficient number of killer cells and controls the entire immune system. The body's own defense system is overridden with the lack of Melatonin. Since melatonin controls the nightly rest and regeneration cycle, a disturbed melatonin distribution leads to significant sleep disturbances.
3. Initially the nerve cells signal disturbances, including vegetative disturbances like freezing and sweating in bed, circulation problems, rheumatic pain, and morning migraine. After years on this path MS, Parkinson and other diseases appear.
4. Next, glandular organs are affected, primarily the thyroid gland. These react with over- or under-functionality, goitre, heart rhythm disturbances and hypertension.
5. In the meantime, the body's own defense system is reduced. The lymphocytes are wrongly divided and programmed. The result of this is chronic recurring infections especially in the throat-nose-ears area, chronic bronchitis, asthma, multiple allergies. In particular, infants and children develop pseudo-croup and eczema.

6. The collapsed immune defense can no longer deflect the endogenous and exogenous toxins. Poisons from the body and from outside the body can no longer be excreted, they are instead stored. This results in rheumatoid occurrences that usually turn chronic.
7. In the next phase the organ system develops disorders like diabetes, conception difficulties, miscarriages, impotence and groups of pain on the skeletal system occur.
8. Infants and children develop multiple behavioral disorders. In the case of these symptoms, thought should always be given to a Geopathy. Seemingly causeless crying, bed wetting, learning difficulties, failure at school, fatigue, hyperactivity, restlessness, ADS-children, constant bad humor, fits of rage, lying askew in the bed, and bed escape.
9. Cancer often develops at the point of least resistance or the highest premature damage in the body. The connection between geopathological disturbance zones and cancer sickness was already proven in the thirties by Freiherr von Pohl, translated Baron von Pohl. Health Counselor Dr. Hager confirmed von Pohl's findings after thorough research and reported upon it at the surgeons' congress in Berlin. Dr. Rambeau, chairman of the Marburg medical association reached the same conclusion in 1931.
