Reasons for the Analysis and Assessment of Offices

A) Performance optimizing Measures

Productive Working Environment – The implementation of Feng Shui principles in the workplace creates a pleasant working atmosphere that inspires the director, the management and the employee. Business partners, customers and visitors feel positively addressed.

Success and Gains Optimization – You want to improve and increase the success and earnings of your company.

Increase in Concentration – You want to stimulate your employees, by providing them with good energy. The resulting increase in concentration also leads to an efficient work style.

Employee Loyalty – You have the feeling that your activities are being undermined or that you do not have the support of your employees and require more loyalty.

B) Change of Office / Building Planning

Analysis of the Current Office – the company has just moved into new premises or in the building where the company has been for years all of a sudden, difficulties of all kinds occur, e.g. more lost contracts, difficulty in maximizing earnings, loss of loyalty or destruction of business processes.

Analysis of a Future Office – the company wants to move into new premises or open a new branch and in doing so, ensure that the energy "Qi" sets you on a success course.

Site Evaluation – The ideal site is being sought for the new company buildings. The location and division of the site as well as the alignment of the buildings drastically influence the business performance.

Architectural Planning / Construction of Company Premises – the company would like that the employees are provided with the best energy, so that they can maximize their performance capability. It is advisable to have a cooperation with the architects, the director, the management and a traditional trained Feng Shui Practitioner prior to the start of construction.

The implementation of the best possible Feng Shui in the office has a positive effect on the director, the management and the employees as well as the business course. In this way, the entire performance of the company is positively influenced.
